Brand New Book  Print on Demand .Excerpt from James Gates Percival: An Anecdotal Sketch and a Bibliography But who is he with modest looks And clad in homely russet-brown? He murmurs near the running brooks A music sweeter than their own. He is retired as noon-tide dew, Or fountain in a noon-day grove; And you must love him ere to you He will seem worthy of your love. The outward shows of sky and earth, Of hill and valley, he has viewed; And impulses of deeper birth Have come to him in solitude. In common things that round us lie Some random truths he can impart, The harvest of a quiet eye, That broods and sleeps on his own heart. - Wordsworth.
