Reviews

The publication is simple in go through preferable to fully grasp. I am quite late in start reading this one, but better then never. It is extremely difficult to leave it before concluding, once you begin to read the book.

Excerpt: . . . haveia much stronger claim upon a person than the superfluous indulgence of his own appetite. Never hesitate between a beggar and a halfpennyworth of nuts I know not whether by adopting this maxim you may (as the Scripture says) lay I up treasure in heaven, but this I am sure of, that the relish of a good action will continue longer and be a thousand times more grateful than that of an apple. Finally, whatever you do, never affect singularity or ostentation. To be modest, open, ingenuous and unassuming in your manner, just and true in your conduct, and generous and hu mane in your disposition, is the only character you should aim at, as it is the highest commendation you can ever receive. Your affectionate uncle J. Rrronr. XXXIII. To MR. WAnasou. Dan MAT, Grays Inn, 15th March, 1783. If it were not for the information I have received from your emigrating friends, and from two pair of cheeses which I was told came from you, and for which I, therefore, return you my hearty thanks, I should long before this have concluded that your head was laid some three feet under water in Stockton church-yard. It seems, however, that you are yet alive and as busy, as restless and as hobbyhorsical as ever. And while you can dress your flax, keep your accounts, and have the supreme pleasure of deafening a few halfwitted weavers over a pint of ale with your cursed...
